Peggy Griffin (Cupertino resident)

Council comments included (please watch meeting video for complete comments):

Scharf: Concerned about mobile food trucks taking business away from restaurants who are paying high lease rates and struggling to get customers; would not like to see food trucks on a daily basis except for special events; would not like to take retail and convert to industrial; look into new office space or housing on Bubb Rd. if buildings are vacated by Apple; would like to see Bubb Rd. redeveloped and could build higher since up against Highway 85; small businesses need to go where the lease rates are lower.

Chao: If give developers density in exchange for lower rate, should do the same for retail; look at ways to incentivize property owners to give lower rental rate for businesses; what uses are allowed only in light industrial areas and what businesses would be lost with this zoning type; focus on how to attract more businesses that fit in light industrial vs. considering something that's not there so can diversify businesses in Cupertino; need space for mid-size businesses that generate significant sales-tax revenue to study rather than small businesses; need ordinance to regulate mobile vendors; Planning Department, who has expertise in zoning, should be in charge of ordinances for any kind of zoning change, and mobile vendor ordinance in consultation with the Economic Development Committee; send these zoning changes through the Planning Commission first; EDC should figure out why retail sales are going down and where people are spending money and provide that information to the local businesses; need to strengthen industrial zoning and need better enforcement; definitely need what's currently in the strategy plan to develop design standards for retail space in mixed-use development; need to figure out what kind of retail design would be successful in mixed-use environment and focus on this.

Sinks: Concern that have no mechanism to make sure space is used for small businesses and won't get changed over in a flip of usage; supportive generally of mobile vendors; diversify business without allowing them to get swallowed up like what happened at Main St.

Paul: Need to figure out ways to encourage retail growth and have a better diversity of selections available; concern that if don't execute incubator space then it becomes a slow or mid-range conversion into office; does the City have the will to deliver and sustain incubator space; how do we outreach to ensure space is utilized as such; regarding food trucks, comply with SB946 but prefer a baseline that preserves all rights as a jurisdiction and become more open and lenient from that baseline; have members of the public communicate where they want the food trucks; regarding Bubb Rd. should wait for incoming Community Development Director to give recommendations; lack of enforcement on compliance in making sure business doesn't convert to something else; define what we would like space to become on Bubb Rd. and the area could use modernization and less height restrictions; look at office and residential along Bubb Rd.; don't want to lose small town feel but not light industrial all the way through; new CDD Director should look at policy setting, enforcement, and execution.

Willey: Would like a list of what is considered light industrial and services that would benefit the residents such as solar installation, recycling, school services, etc.; keep those services close to where the residents are to make a complete community and not just all business and become too sterile of an environment.

Staff will follow-up on all items as noted in Council comments including:

Mobile Vendors Regulations: Present draft ordinance to Planning Commission. Consider specifying allowed areas, limiting the number of approved permits, enforcement, and penalties.

Incubator/Co-working Space Use: Research and return with more information on the breakdown of office users and square footage. Confirm which office users are at Main Street. Identify which Cupertino businesses are significant sales tax producers and confirm office space occupied and/or needed. Consider enforceable criteria to prevent change of use from incubator/co-working space to traditional office. Return to Council prior to further policy development.

Innovation District Vision Plan: Confirm what uses are allowed in Light Industrial zoning. Identify which type of services benefit residents and work to protect those uses (e.g., auto services and repairs, solar, etc.). Wait for new CDD Director to provide guidance and recommendations. Return to Council prior to further policy development.
